MARCUS PERSIANI - PIANO

Don Pedro (2006) 2006

TIME OUT NEW YORK

Bill Lee
Monk—The Original Score
(Monk: The Play)

A clear Bruce Neal does a fine job of capturing Thelonious Monk's famed eccentricities in the current Off Broadway adaptation of Lawrence Sanders' play. Pianist Marcus Persiani pursues Harlem stride and gospel cadences with fervor throughout most of the solo and trio cuts ("Plain," "Nellie's My Mate," "Something Apropos").

...to less enviable task in jazz than replicating some of the idiom's most recognizable compositions, but Lee's charming miniatures (29 tracks clock in at 21 minutes) evoke Monk's moods without rehashing his style's iconic moments.

—The White Har- with and "White,"

...trucks by quartet are somewhat less than the duo's previous work. A better horn section might have made each piece's abbreviated length a liability, but here the essence of each composition is what matters, not the embellishments. For his part, Lee plays the drummer's ensemble with a steady hand, even when it's clear that the interplay on "Angry Love," "Flies II" or "Dance" would benefit from another take.
